WEEKLY ACTIVITIES AND STATUS REPORT FOR THE DD/ICS--11 September 1985

	CIPC Organizational Activities
25 X 1	Pursuant to our conversation, has been informed that he will represent the CIPC on the Vice President's Task Force on Combatting Terrorism for the purpose of identifying Intelligence Community actions under way to address the terrorism problem. Jim was advised that I would be attending the first meeting. - At present, it appears that we will hold the first meeting in our office space.
25 X 1	PFIAB meeting to discuss Soviet BMD. In addition, I have asked Mel to provide CIPC with an MFR on the substance of the meeting.
25 X 1	- was informed of the foregoing on 4 September.
25X1 25X1	 On 6 September,
25X1	• Charlie Allen has responded to your memorandum of 19 August, advising him that the CIPC would initiate a study on the narcotics threat (Attachment 1).

- He stands prepared to support our study effort.

- Charlie recommends that the study be completed within 60 days.
- The BMD Working Group has completed and coordinated on a draft follow-up report for the DCI. However, I have problems with the report.
 - The report needs a statement of: (1) Where was the Community before the CIPC study? and (2) Where is it now?
 - Early in the Executive Summary it needs to incorporate a concise statement of the important recommendations which have been implemented by the Community. At present, these are included on pages 14-20.
 - Some good estimate of the progress made on implementing the recommendations needs to be made very early on (a percentage figure at the very least).
 - The Recommendation Section is somewhat confusing, leaving the reader puzzled over whether these were original recommendations which were not acted upon or whether these are new thoughts.
 - A concise statement of the Perry Panel's findings (including its charge, mission, and accomplishments) is needed in the Executive Summary.
 - The follow-on recommendations should be specific recommendations which the CIPC must review and pass on. They are presently incorporated with recommendations from the original study.
 - The paper needs a section which addresses the principal issues which will confront the Community in the years ahead. This can be called Prospects, Challenge, etc. Right now references to such issues are sprinkled throughout the first eleven pages.
 - The Background Section is awkward. It is essentially a substantive/analytical statement which is extremely detailed to be part of an Executive Summary and is certainly not background in the ordinary sense of the word.

•	The panel did not meet this week.
	The Mobile Missile Study is undergoing final staff review and should be ready for your review in a few days, prior to forwarding to the DCI.
•	Technology Advisory Panel (STAP), and General Robert Duffy that the DCI was concerned with the mobile missile/relocatable target problem. (Both have worked with this problem on the DSB Task Force on Imprecisely Located Targets.) The D/ICS apparently mentioned the research done in our study and requested that the STAP examine the problem and reduced the study

Che	emical/Biological Warfare (CBW):
•	CBW still retains high interest in this town. Indications of that were in the 9 September Washington Post front page story on CBW proliferation. The Post references an alleged September 1983 intelligence estimate in detailing the extent of proliferation, although the data presented sounded like it could have come from the new NIE.
	NOTE: The NIE in question is 5-85, which was approved by NFIB on 9 August 1985. It is noteworthy that during the NFIB meeting, Ambassador Abramowitz urged that the Intelligence Community make every effort to increase its intelligence collection against specific countries which are engaged in the development and export of chemical warfare agents. There reportedly was general agreement among the NFIB members that this effort should be undertaken.
Mi	scellaneous:
•	During the week,met with the NIO for Science and Technology to discuss his top three "critical" topics for intelligence: Space-Based ASW, Low Observables, and Strategic Defense.
•	In addition, Tony met with Defense Intelligence College, to discuss protection of US intellectual property and other issues bearing on the economic health of the US.

STAT

MEMORANDUM FOR:

FROM:

Director of Training and Education

SUBJECT:

Executive Development Forum

- 1. Congratulations on your recent promotion into the Senior Intelligence Service (SIS). Your invitation to join the SIS represents not only an official recognition of your accomplishments in the past but also Agency management's faith in your potential for the future. It is a time of transition and growth. It is also a time to take stock of skills which you have and skills which you may need to acquire to meet the additional challenges before you.
- 2. The Executive Development Program, sponsored by the Office of Training and Education, is designed to assist you in the transition into the Agency's senior ranks and to provide continuing educational opportunities for all senior executives. The program consists of two major segments: the Executive Leadership Forum, a course required of all newly-promoted senior intelligence officers, and an on-going electives program designed to meet the current and changing needs of individual officers.
- 3. The Executive Leadership Forum is a new course being offered for the first time this fall. It replaces the Executive Development Core Course. The Forum has been developed jointly with the Center for Creative Leadership, the designers of the Program on Creative Management. The Center is in the forefront of research on the processes and pitfalls of executive development, and identifying reasons why some executives succeed and why some fail. These issues will be key elements in the one-week program, which is designed to aid you in sharpening your skills for present and future responsibilities. The Seminar will be a blend of key speakers, formal instruction, and small group discussions to allow for the maximum sharing of information, perceptions, and concerns among participants.

Please submit the attached sheet by 19 September indicating your preferred week, with at least one alternate date. Allocations will be made on a first-come, first-served basis.
